Tickets for the great concert Monday night are going fast at all the stores where they are sold.

Ex-Bishop John Rowberry died at his ranch in Tooele County at 11.10 a.m. yesterday, of heart disease.

An attachment was issued against W. H. Bowers yesterday for $13,777, amount due to Griffith & Wedge, manufacturers, of Zanesville, Ohio.

The Utah Central has made arrangements for running a special train to Ogden after conference adjourns on Saturday afternoon, leaving about 5 o'clock.

The first sleeper through from Chicago to Ogden, arrived there this morning, thus inaugurating the new and desirable service. There will be one of these through cars each way every day.

Stephens' singers have a private rehearsal in the Tabernacle immediately after the afternoon meetings. They are requested to bring their flags and "song shoes." Visitors will not be admitted.

The rehearsal for Stephens' concert are progressing nicely. The chorus are all well up in their parts, and the soloists are all ready for their various pieces and the outlook is very favorable for a first-class entertainment well attended.

Next Monday Dr. Benedict will operate upon Mrs. Bredemeyer, for the removal of an ovarian tumor. The operation will be of the most difficult and delicate character, the unfortunate lady having been a sufferer from the affliction for fourteen years.

What poor needy Reedy, the maniac of the Butte Inter-Mountain can have against THE HERALD local is only known to himself. Why, Johnny, we love you dearly, and pity you sincerely. Of course nobody could lecture on Bonaparte, or do anything else so well as you could, Johnny dear. There, there, calm yourself, you are the sum of all greatness. Nobody dare question that. There, doctor, he is better now; wipe the froth from his mouth, these spasms never last long.

LEAVITT'S LEVIATHAN.

A Pronounced Success at the Salt Lake Theatre Last Night.

The curtain rose to a crowded house at the Salt Lake Theatre last night, and after the performance began people continued coming till every seat was taken, and large numbers were standing in all parts of the house. The performance may be unhesitatingly pronounced one of the best in the variety line ever seen in this city, for each performer is an acknowledged star in his or her specialty, and most of them stand unrivaled.

The audience was put in a good humor by the opening sketch, entitled, "The Kitchen Domestic," performed by Frank Bennett, Miss Lizzie Gardner, and Frank Goldie, that they were on the verge of being tickled to death by some of the acts which followed. Part of the programme might be said to be rather too much of the concert hall stamp, but this could scarcely be an objection as it is high class concert hall, and "A No. 1" of its kind; and it would be difficult to raise any other objection.

The audience was convulsed with laughter at the inimitable farcical contortions and elastic dancing of Fred Matthews, and delighted to the verge of enthusiasm by the wonderful bicycling feats of the Selbini family, father, mother, and child, who performed on their bicycles something after the fashion of the champion circus riders on horseback. The child, a mere baby, dressed in a cunning little costume consisting of two small silk flags, took the house by storm, fascinating some members of the audience to such an extent that they threw silver quarters and half dollars to her on the stage.

Then followed one of the most comical and best acted sketches ever seen on any stage, entitled the Workingman's Strike, performed by Messrs. Conroy, Daly, Thompson and Flynn. This act must be seen to be appreciated; it is a perfect satire, and is given by the "four shamrocks" in a highly original and artistic style. The skipping rope dance, Miss Lottie Elliott, scored another victory for the troupe, and by general verdict was declared inimitable. Her grace and endurance were astounding, and the claim made for her in the bills as "the idol of the poetry of motion," is in no degree an exaggeration.

Space will not permit a further rehearsal in detail; suffice it to say that the show is excellent. Walratta, the wonder of the wire, startled everybody, and perhaps, to some extent, eclipsed everything else. The closing act, "All Fool's Day," was a fitting finale to an evening's amusement, which each member of the audience felt was well worth his money.

London Bank Trouble.

Nothing new in relation to this matter transpired yesterday, except that it was not J. R. Walker of the firm of Walker Bros. who went on the bond for Bowers, but a nephew of that gentleman, the cashier in the dry goods department of the firm. It is probable that the bank will proceed as soon as possible to pay off all the depositors, and that it will then close up entirely. There seemed to be no doubt on the street yesterday that depositors would get all their money.

Salt Lake Kindergarten and Graded School.

This Select School, which is still known as the only "Kindergarten" in the city, and the only one employing Kindergarten methods in the instruction of older pupils, has secured the new Jewish school-house (commonly called the Synagogue), situated on the corner of Third South and First West streets, one block west of the Metropolitan Hotel, where the new term will open on Monday next. This building, which has recently been erected for school purposes, is in every way adapted to a first class school, being made of brick, entirely new, rooms very high, well lighted and unusually well ventilated, and the grounds large and tastefully enclosed. It is a central and healthful location and easily reached from any part of the city on the D. & R. G. car line.

This school is not confined to children of the Kindergarten, but has always taken pupils of any grade. The character of the instruction is well known. The Kindergarten department will be conducted as heretofore, children from four years old and upwards being received. Small pupils sent from a distance on the car line will be carefully attended to.

Tuition the same as in other schools. Industrial classes for the advanced pupils will be conducted. Special lessons in music, etc., will be taught as extra studies.

For terms of admission, course of study or Kindergarten methods and specimens of work, apply to MRS. MARCUS JONES, 133w First South street.

New Method Book.

The New Self-Instructor for the organ and piano will be out Saturday next, with a most choice selection of tunes. A new Upright Piano for sale for $225. Several second-hand pianos and organs for sale very cheap. Orders for the book by mail will be promptly filled.

Also a number of presidents of stakes, bishops and elders from various parts of the Territory.

PRESIDENT JOHN TAYLOR.

He was pleased to have another opportunity of meeting with the Saints in annual conference, he was thankful for the favorable circumstances and the beautiful weather which we now enjoy. These occasions were fraught with events of importance to the Latter-day Saints, causing them to reflect upon the goodness and mercy of God and to strengthen and encourage them for the events of the future. The Father and the Son instituted it, and it had been perpetuated by the inspiration of the holy ghost and the introduction of the holy priesthood. Prophets had looked forward with joy and had written and sung of this day. It was "the dispensation of the fullness of times." It was not within the power of any man, no matter what their wisdom or ability, to carry on this work without God's aid. They were indebted to the wisdom and guidance of God for the inception and beginning of this work and in each successive step that they had taken they were indebted to Him for all the progress they had made. Without His aid no man, whatever his position, could do anything for the advancement of this work.

All the children of God were interested in this work, the living, the dead and unborn, and they as a people held their destinies to a great extent in their hands, for their actions not as individuals but as a people would have a bearing upon nations as well as individuals in the future. President Taylor hailed the congregation as his brethren and sisters, invoked the blessing of God upon them in Conference and declared that His wrath and indignation would be upon their enemies and all who would fight against Zion.

At the afternoon session the attendance was equally large, and the conference was addressed by Apostles Moses Thatcher, Albert Carrington and F. D. Richards.

APO-LE GEORGE TEASDALE

said, upon receiving the gospel he received a knowledge of its truth for himself. The history of this people was singularly like that of Abraham, having left all to obey the gospel. They had believed in the true and living God and obeyed His gospel and received the promised blessings. The promises that were made and their fulfillment in the case of those who received the gospel was an evidence that God's power was with His servants and their authority was valid. Another evidence of the divinity of this work was the peace that reigned in the families of the Saints, even in what was called polygamy, and it would be found that there was more trouble in monogamous families than among those who had received the celestial law of marriage.

This was accounted for by the fact that this people came here for the love of God, and they tried to claim the blessings promised to those who seek first the kingdom of God and His righteousness. Though the elders were treated despectfully by the people of the world generally, there were a few who gladly received the Gospel. The signs still followed the believer, and the power of God was continually being made manifest in response to the ministrations of the servants of God. The only way they could expect the blessings of God was by keeping His commandments, and if they did this they need not fear the efforts of men. They conceded they had the right to believe, but denied the right to practice their religion. Such was the result of the boasted enlightenment of the men of this nation. God help such intelligence! They were interested in doing good to themselves and all mankind; then keep the commandments of God, and be blessed with the power to redeem yourselves, to redeem the dead, and have glory added unto you for having made good use of your talents. And they owed it to God having come here pure, to return with the same character they had when they left his presence. Theory would not do alone, for they would be judged by the deeds done in the body, and professions of good desires were not sufficient.

APOSTLE F. M. LYMAN

Rejoiced in the opportunities afforded on these occasions. His religion required not only good intentions but good works. Faith would not avail, only as it prompted to works. If the true faith existed it would prompt to action. What advantage to only profess to believe in the various ordinances and principles of the gospel, and have not faith to go forth and perform the work. A religion without works is dead. It was singular liberality that would only permit men to believe. God required them to keep His commandments as well as to believe in them, and it was better that they had never been born than to break the commandments of God. Their hopes depended on doing the works of righteousness. They would be just the kind of people that God desired them to be if they kept His commandments. They were chosen to perform this work before they came here; they had made covenants to keep the commandments of God, and did not expect to wait until the hereafter to receive blessings, receiving blessings here every day. They knew that God lived, and had an assurance of this beyond all the reasoning and sophistries of men. They knew also that this was the work of God. They knew these things beyond all doubt, as they knew that they have a living God, and they knew that the nations that fought against Zion would be destroyed and cut off. The servants of God were bearing these testimonies to the nations, but the people hardened their hearts and rejected the truth. If they would listen and obey they might receive the same blessings as the Saints enjoyed. As they had this knowledge let them strive to keep all of the commandments, that they might be blessed with the unspeakable riches of eternity, which through their mortal imperfections they were not now prepared to fully realize. He testified that the kingdom was never more firmly rooted than at present, that there were never so many persons who were devoted to the truth, and that it would continue to grow in power, as God had intended.

PRESIDENT W. WOODRUFF announced that a meeting of the Mutual Improvement Societies of both sexes would be held in the Assembly Hall, at 7 o'clock last evening; also a meeting of the Sunday School Union, most likely in the same place, on Saturday evening, and a meeting of the Priesthood on Sunday evening.

The choir sang:

"Who can stand against the works of the Lord."

Conference adjourned till 2 o'clock p.m.

Benediction by Apostle Wilford Woodruff.

At the afternoon session the attendance was equally large, and the conference was addressed by Apostles Moses Thatcher, Albert Carrington and F. D. Richards.

L. GOLDBERG,

205 and 207 Main Street.

The Opera House.

The presentation of the "Plant-er's Wife" at the Opera House yesterday afternoon and evening was a success artistically, the parts being more than usually well played. It is hardly fair to make special mention where all were up to it not beyond the standard of excellence; but Misses Adams, Dunbar, Anderson and Ellsworth deserve great praise, and Mr. Southard made a very favorable impression.

This afternoon and evening "His Amber Witch" will be presented. This piece is very attractive in itself, and in the hands of Miss Adams and the company associated with her, cannot fail to draw large audiences. It is that lady's own property and is played by no one else. It will be found interesting in the highest degree.

ASIDE FROM their excellence, there is economy in buying Dr. Price's Special Flavoring Extracts, as the bottles hold one-half more than others purporting to hold the same quantity. They are the most natural flavors made, and in strength, quality and quantity, there are no other flavoring extracts that can compare with Dr. Price's.

Maynes, Miss Ella Dunbar (who has earned quite a name as an actress, not only in Salt Lake, but throughout the Territory.) Mrs. Tillie Anderson, Miss Minnie Ellsworth and others of well known ability. The company will present on Friday afternoon and evening, April 4th, the American comedy drama in four acts, "The Planter's Wife," and on Saturday afternoon and evening Miss Adams' great play, written expressly for her, "His Amber Witch." This popular house is again before the public with an announcement of "spring goods," which are offered at unusually attractive prices. Mr. Burton, while on his recent trip east, personally selected much of the stock now arriving, and to say he had displayed good taste and judgment would simply be asserting what the goods actually confirm. Nearly everything in their line of groceries, dry goods, notions and clothing is shown in desirable variety and quality, and, what is most inducing, their goods are marked down low.
